Dear Dr Henney:

I am writing to urge the FDA to consider a comprehensive ban on the use of antibiotics in animals to promote growth.

There This use of antibiotics in animals has been banned by the European Union, for fear that ^{over}use of antibiotics used in human medicine may lead to an increase in untreatable infections diseases.

There seems to a heightened sense of fear about our indiscriminate use of antibiotics for every ill that plagues us, and the development of 'bugs' that are resistant to even the most potent drugs we can throw at them.

I urge the FDA to take these concerns seriously, and to weigh the future medical needs of our citizens against the interests of agribusinesses etc. ✓
